Boots On The Ground

During this time of unrest in the world, there are many arguments over whether wars can be won with drones, manned air-strikes, or whether we must have boots on the ground. In the war against Satan it is clear we must have boots on the ground, and mine are now firmly planted on Zambian soil. I left Jack at the airport in D.C. and headed back to Zambia ahead of him in order to begin the search for a new home and have it all set up before he arrives. He will remain in the States for a couple of months in order to finish meetings. Our paperwork is finished, and I am staying with friends in Livingstone until I can find our home.

It is rainy season here, but even though it is very wet it has brought relief from the high heat. Just three weeks ago it was 118 F, so I am SO glad the rains are here! There are some down-sides to the rains however as they have brought the mosquitoes and travel is somewhat restricted as widespread flooding is evident. But God is so good at building bridges, even down to people carrying others on their backs thru deep water in order to reach their destination. It is humbling to see them do this just to reach the doors of the churches in order to worship the Lord. It is shaming to know that we in the States would most likely not even attempt it. We fall so short.

Please continue to pray for us as we look toward moving the ministry to Mazabuka to open a new area. We would also like to ship our container but need added funds to do so. Thank you so much for your faithfulness!

Time for a real holiday?

So often we will say to each other, "come and see us" without anyone really meaning what they say. But we would like to extend the invitation for you to COME AND SEE US! Many feel that they understand missions, but until you have seen it in person on a foreign field you have no clue as to what you are missing.

The parents of a friend just visited here, and the mother told me "how in the world do I explain what I have seen and felt since being here?" I told her to just look at the people she is talking to and do nothing but cry. There are no words. Please consider a short term missions trip to visit us here in Zambia and see what the Lord is doing. You will never be the same. Send us an email and we can give you the information you need. Best time to come is May thru August. And to quote a famous line; "we'll leave the light on for you!"
